Business Continuity Planning Customer Disclosure

Concorde Investment Services, LLC ("Concorde" or the "firm") has developed a Business Continuity Plan on how we will respond to events that could significantly disrupt our business. Since the timing and impact of disasters and disruptions is unpredictable, we will have to be flexible in responding to actual events as they occur. With that in mind, we are providing you with this information on our business continuity plan.

CONTACTING US

If after a significant business disruption you cannot contact us as you usually do [through your Concorde representative or via our Home Office telephone number (248) 824-6710], you should call our alternative number [(248) 740-8500]. Although the firm does not currently maintain a "customer"-oriented web site, in the event of a significant business disruption affecting our Home Office telephone service, we will also post alternative telephone contact numbers on our recruiting website at: www.concordeis.com. If you cannot access us through any of those means, you should contact the clearing firm responsible for carrying your account. Our two clearing firms' addresses and telephone numbers are:

Our Business Continuity Plan

We plan to quickly recover and resume business operations after a significant business disruption and respond by safeguarding our employees and property, making a financial and operational assessment, protecting the firm's books and records, and allowing our customers to transact business. In short, our business continuity plan is designed to permit our firm to resume operations as quickly as possible, given the scope and severity of the significant business disruption.

Our business continuity plan addresses: data backup and recovery; all mission critical systems; financial and operational assessments; alternative communications with customers, employees, and regulators; alternate physical location of employees; critical supplier, contractor, bank and counter-party impact; regulatory reporting; and assuring our customers prompt access to their funds and securities if we are unable to process business.

Our clearing firms (referenced above) back up their own important records in geographically separate areas. While every emergency situation poses unique problems based on external factors, such as time of day and the severity of the disruption, we have been advised by our clearing firms that their objective is to restore their own operations and be able to complete existing transactions and accept new transactions and payments within four hours (Pershing) and promptly (RBC). Your orders and requests for funds and securities could be delayed during this period.

Varying Disruptions

Significant business disruptions can vary in their scope; affecting only our firm Home Office, the city where we are located, a single branch office of our firm, all branch office locations in a specific geographic district, or the whole region. Within each of these areas, the severity of the disruption can also vary from minimal to severe. In a disruption to only our Home Office, we will transfer our operations to a local site when needed and expect to recover and resume business within three hours. In a disruption affecting our business district, city, or region, we will transfer operations to sites outside of the affected area, and recover and resume business within four hours. In either situation, we plan to continue conducting business, transfer operations to our clearing firm(s) if necessary, and notify you through our investment representatives or through our recruiting website. If a significant business disruption is so severe that it prevents us from conducting business, we will assure our customers prompt access to their funds and securities via our clearing firms.

SEC Rule 606 (Order Routing Disclosure)

SEC Rule 606 ("the Rule") requires all broker-dealers that route orders in equity and option securities to make available quarterly reports that present a general overview of their routing practices. The reports must identify the significant venues to which customer orders were routed for execution during the applicable quarter and disclose the material aspects of the broker-dealer's relationship with such venues. In addition, the Rule requires broker-dealers to disclose, on customer request, the venues to which the customer's individual orders were routed.

In addition, broker-dealers must respond to customer request for individual information on customer orders that were routed for execution in the six months prior to the request, whether the orders were directed or non-directed, and the time of the transactions, if any, that resulted from such orders.

Strategic Partner Disclosure

Although we provide many investment choices to our independent registered representatives, certain "Strategic Partners" are provided with additional opportunities and access to our Representatives for the purpose of marketing and training regarding their products. In order to form a strategic relationship with Concorde Investment Services, the Strategic Partner must meet several criteria, such as: unique and competitive products, excellent customer service, and availability of training and sales support to our field force.

Strategic Partners pay additional amounts to Concorde Investment Services for these additional marketing and training opportunities. However, you do not pay more to purchase the investments of our Strategic Partners, nor does your registered representative receive any additional compensation.
